Waltman provided the voices of Deadpool's Mento in Deadpool and the Merc with a Mouth in Deadpool vs. Wolverine and Adam Lambert in Marvelous' post-XMFC Austin Powers: The Spy Who Shagged Me. The news of Waltman's departure was first reported by Newsarama's Jim Johnson, who was given the following statement from Waltman: "I am retiring from voicing characters at Marvel and am also returning to college. I am grateful to have had the opportunities I've had and excited to see the adventures of my Deadpool-Mento, Deadpool & The Merc with a Mouth-Mento characters in their own Marvel products." Waltman lent his voice talents to multiple comic series from DC and

Marvel Comics, including the Batman '66 weekly series and Sonic the Hedgehog, as well as movies like Justice League Unlimited and the Mummy movies. Walters came aboard the X-Men in the '90s to provide the voice of Angel, the team's resident telepath and protagonist from 1994's X-Men: The Animated Series. In 2000, he played the role of Wonder Man in the Legion of Super-Heroes theatrical film. Waltman's departure marks another in a series of longtime voice actors departing the comic industry, including Kevin Conroy, who first voiced Batman for DC and later lent his vocal talents to Game of Thrones, The Dark Knight, and Batman Begins. Kevin Conroy is still actively voicing Batman and Superman and will appear as a guest star on the CW's
