This lightweight app will not require any installation process, nor any individual set-up steps. This ensures a fast deployment and a quick start-up process. Right from the start, the app's interface gives away its simplistic nature, through its rudimentary design. The main window can be resized and arranged, but that is about all the customization one can apply to the layout of the app. The color theme, texture or feature design cannot be altered, and this might be bothersome, as it is crucial to adapt its looks for different events, with various characteristics. Add a preferred text, select a currency and set an hourly rate The predefined text entry areas will enable users to input the details of the meeting or conference, in two sections, but which do not feature any formatting options. Furthermore, the currency and hourly rate do not pose advanced settings. Demanding users might consider this one of the app's major drawbacks, as adjustment is key when dealing with the market segment addressed by the app. Decent software for keeping track of time at conferences and meetings, but with some caveats This application will 1d6a3396d6
