Severe wound infection after shoulder surgery in a child after traumatic brachial plexus injury. A 9-year-old girl sustained an open injury to the right upper extremity after a fall. Because of a brachial plexus palsy, she underwent surgery for a cervical hemisection in which an interscalene brachial plexus block was performed. Seven months later, she underwent surgical removal of a frozen shoulder, in which a subdeltoid to infraclavicular block was used. After 24 hours, she had a high fever of unknown origin, and on postoperative day 2 a surgical debridement was performed. Cultures were negative, except for a blood culture, which grew Morganella morganii. We report this case to highlight the importance of recognizing M. morganii as a potential cause of sepsis, especially in children with brachial plexus injury. about roadblocks on popular TnA destinations such as Bush/Harrison county, north of I-40 in Kentucky. Idiots. The reason why is is that they don't want to put a roadblock on I-75 because they know that they have the majority of police to sit there and they know that they have actual people making money. They don't want the distance from legal businesses and instead let their drunks drink a block away. Problem is, they are working their way across the state, and eventually Ohio will be the only state in the north without a major interstate. Sooner or later this war will reach Kentucky. North of i-75 is going to be a warzone. MikeyJ9313 11-01-2012, 08:53 AM The idiots would rather try to stop the M80 at the Kentucky border, rather than the M65 at the Indiana border, which could have stopped the BOP... firefly291 11-01-2012, 09:17 AM This is just my opinion, but since they had a disabled vehicle, should they have contacted
