Globalization Tools was created as a small set of add-ins to provide a basic set of functions to add some localization for Windows Installer-based applications without any effort or coding required. Globalization Tools was created with the particular purpose of reducing the difficulties for developers to localize their software. The program has four parts: 1. Globalization Tools Manager, 2. Resource Manager, 3. Globalization Tools installer (don't confuse with Resource Manager) and 4. Language Support. Globalization Tools Manager GTSM provides a simple GUI to create new translation rules, apply them to an existing projects, edit them, view the results and re-apply them. It can translate the whole project or can be used to translate specific resources (ex. resources where the filename matches a keyword). The basic usage is the following: 1. Open the Globalization Tools Manager from the Context Menu of a project, 2. Select the rules to be created, 3. Click the "Create" button, 4. Fill the dialog and finish. The Globalization Tools Manager has the following dialogs: Translation Lists: List of templates for the localization of text files. Text Files: Select the text files that will be translated by the new rules you create. Applies: Select a project (or a solution) and selects the rules that you created. Edit: Select a project (or a solution) and click this button to modify the rules. Re-Apply: Select a project (or a solution) and click this button to apply the translation rules you have modified previously. About Box: Appears when you click on the edit icon in the toolbars. Preferences Box: Contains the user preferences and the dialogs to open the Resource Editor. Language Support Language Support contains the following dialogs: Add Language: Select the language and then the domain (ex. France, Germany) that will be supported by the globalization tool. Edit Language: Select the language and then the domain (ex. France, Germany) and a

"Comment" for the language. Editor Box: Appears if you double-click on a resource file in the window and the editor will open. File: Select the language and the domain (ex.
