Q: How to get the SUM of the amount of players in the Community-run Dungeon League? In the event of an "unbeatable" Dungeon League run, the community-run staff has the option to break a tiebreaker by adding additional players to the roster. How can this be done? A: Unfortunately, this isn't possible at the time, as it would require additional server log data. Please let us know if you have any additional questions!

IgE binding to Bet v 1 and non-Bet v 1 allergens in the German repertory. Type 1 hypersensitivity is characterized by an immunoglobulin (Ig) E-mediated cascade starting with the production of allergen-specific IgE antibodies. For the identification of the best source of allergen, the region of the molecule responsible for IgE binding has been of growing interest. Peroxidase-labeled human monoclonal IgE were used in a multiparametric flow-cytometry for the analysis of allergen binding to IgE. In total, 11 allergen extracts, representing common allergenic sources, were analyzed in detail. Seven of them gave a very homogeneous profile of the IgE binding, with quantitative and qualitative differences among the source extracts in the following order: Olea europaea (olive), Deliciata silvestris (food-tree), Dactylis glomerata (orchard grass), Glycine max (soybean), Poaceae (grass/reed), Castanea sativa (chestnut), Quercus robur (oak).
